(860) 491-9988

05/15 Spring brings the Players' 62nd Annual Spring Musical. Working: The Musical (both the title of the show and something with which we are all familiar) was created by some of the most spectacular talent of the last 100 years. Based on the 1974 book by Pulitzer Prize winning author Studs Terkel, Working: People Talk About What They Do All Day And How They Feel About What They Do, this musical features songs and lyrics written by Steven Schwartz, James Taylor, Mary Rodgers and many others. Twenty six workers talk and sing about their jobs, defining not only their daily routines and rounds but also their hopes, dreams, aspirations, and dreads. This updated version of Terkel's book brings to you the day to day lives of hugely varied characters, including a firefighter, waitress, corporate executive, mill worker, housewife, sailor and parking lot attendant as they all seek both daily meaning and daily bread in the chores which they perform. Fri/Sat 8pm; Sun 5pm Click to Visit

You find yourself humming them, whistling them, and singing a verse to a friend. Like the songs of Woody Guthrie, they're becoming part of America." Pete goes on: "In a small village near Calcutta, in 1998, a villager who could not speak English sang me What Did You Learn In School Today? in Bengali! Albums like The Trinity Session (1988), Black Eyed Man (1992), Miles From Our Home (1988) and Early 21st Century Blues (2005), to isolate just a few high points, chronicle a creative journey that is impervious to trends. Each of those albums sounds as fresh and current today as when it was made

- 05/15 Carla Ulbrich & Dan Hart 203-272-8404 $14-16 7:30p A double bill of humorous - and sometimes demented - songs.
 Carla Ulbrich is a comical singer-songwriter/ guitarist from Clemson, South Carolina, currently living in New Jersey. Carla has a love of wordplay and a keen observational eye. She is primarily known for her humorous songs such as "Please Do Something Stupid," "I Have to Kill You Now," "Nothing to Say," and "If I Had the Copyright" (about how rich she would be if she had the copyright on the 'F' Word).
 "I get to tour in Europe and I can't get sued for malpractice" are the reasons former psychologist Dan Hart gives for abandoning the 50-minute hour for the life of a singer/songwriter. Now based in Boston, Dan has been performing his unique mix of folk, rock and comedy at clubs across the U.S. and Europe for 30 years. He has lived in almost every region of the U.S.; his lyrics combine Midwestern honesty, West Coast humor and East Coast cynicism.

 7:30p The CT Virtuosi Chamber Orchestra, directed by Adrian Sylveen, and an international cast will perform an operatic double feature of Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" and Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi."
 The double feature begins with "Pagliacci" (The Clowns), the story of the brutal "Canio" - opera's most famous clown - and his passionate, faithless wife, Nedda, as their traveling theater troupe brings its play to life with tragic consequences. Featuring a hunchback who's as evil as he is ugly, one of the great tenor arias of all time, "Vesti la giuba," "Pagliacci" includes a play within the play that juxtaposes the tragedy of the private lives of Leoncavallo's clowns with the rustic humor of the Commedia.
 As a comic foil, "Gianni Schicchi" is a story about a cunning commoner, who outwits a pack of greedy Florentine nobles and finagles a fortune for himself, his daughter Lauretta and her beloved Rinuccio. "Gianni Schicchi" is one of the funniest operas you'll ever see and is teeming with comedic elements such as money-grubbing relatives, fake deaths, and a frantic family squabbling amongst themselves. Highlighting the score is one of opera's most beloved soprano arias, "O mio babbino caro."
